This ingenious electronic fork accurately indicates the doneness of cooked meat (beef, lamb, pork) and poultry (chicken and turkey). Now you can put aside any worries of undercooking chicken or overcooking beef. Simply insert the prong into the meat to measure the internal temperature. The fork can be preset for your desired doneness. When it is reached, the fork signals with a continuous beeping sound and flashing display. It also lets you know how you're coming along at a glance and helps meal planning.
